DETAILED ACTION

Claim Interpretation - 35 USC § 112

1. Applicant recites a “merging means for merging” in claim 8. The language appears to be an attempt to invoke 35 USC 112, 6th paragraph interpretation of the claims. A claim limitation will be interpreted to invoke 35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph, if it meets the following 3-prong analysis:

- (A) the claim limitations must use the phrase “means for” or “step for;”
- (B) the “means for” or “step for” must be modified by functional language; and
- (C) the phrase “means for” or “step for” must not be modified by sufficient structure, material or acts for achieving the specified function.

In the instant case, applicant appears to have met the limitations set forth in MPEP § 2181, and examiner has turned to the specification for clarification.

In the specification, applicant fails to define the “means for merging.” Since Applicant has failed to define the “means for merging,” the claim does not enjoy the benefit of any special definition.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claim 22 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

5. Claim 22 provides for the use of the device of claim 21, but, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Claim 22 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 1-3, 8-11, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 6,234,203 to Bäcklund.

In the specification and figures, Bäcklund discloses the method substantially as claimed by Applicant. With regard to claims 1-3, Bäcklund discloses the step of providing a flow merging device (see FIG 1), splitting flow from inlet A into outlets B&D, splitting flow from inlet C to outlets B&D, allowing the outlet flows to merge together, wherein the branches are substantially parallel (see FIG 1, column 4, lines 40-46). Bäcklund fails to disclose that the method results in a reduction in flow disturbance. However, since Bäcklund discloses the same steps claimed by Applicant, it flows naturally that the method disclosed by Bäcklund limits flow disturbance as claimed by Applicant.

With regard to claims 8-11 and 21, Bäcklund discloses the claimed device, with flow lines that comprise inlets A, C, outlets, B, D, and branches that may split flow. With regard to the claimed timing of flow merging flow rates, contents of the apparatus, and outlet location, Applicant is setting forth the intended use of the claimed apparatus. It has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. See MPEP § 2114. It is the position of the Examiner that the Bäcklund device is capable of functioning in the manner claimed by Applicant, thereby meeting the limitations of the claims.

8. Claim12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 6,234,203 to Bäcklund in view of US 2005/0221072 to Dubrow et al.

In the specification and figures, Bäcklund discloses the method substantially as claimed by Applicant with the exception of the material the device is made from. It is well-known in the art of medical implants to form the implanted device of an engineered tissue in order to enhance biocompatibility, as taught by Dubrow. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use engineered tissue as disclosed by Dubrow in the apparatus suggested by the prior art, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. See MPEP § 2144.07.

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claims 4-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

10. Claim13-20 are allowed.

11. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art fails to disclose or suggest the method of providing a flow merging device, splitting IVC and SVC flow into two branches, and rejoining the blood flow, along with the other steps of the claimed method.

Conclusion

12. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:

- a. US 5,383,491
 - i. Tandem flow diverting system
